Faster and faster yet we skated towards the cataract. It could not be far off. I pictured to myself what Olier's thoughts might be. Dod he know whither he was hastening? or had that awful light yet to flash on his guilty mind? The half breed made snawer to my thought. him in the pale skimmer start convulsively, and throw his arms in the air; but he dared not stop, and on he darted again with a yell of despair, which echoed weard-like up the channel. Another sound came to my car, and I knew what had caused that cry of agony to burst from Olier; it was the dull shunder of the falls! We were nearing them fast. Still the walls of snow shut in my victim, and every moment leasened his frail hopes of escape. One chance was left him—to distance me, and hide somewhere in the anew from my scrutiny. Vain hope—the wing of the bird could scarce have asved him.

Olier's track, we maintained exactly the same distance between us—perhaps a hundred or a hundred and fifty yards. I still grasped my loaded pistols, ready for any stratagem on the part of the murderer.

And now the cresh of the falls came loud and

The following thrilling ask ch (or the denouement of one is so apropos to the season, as well as so admirably written, that we lay it before our readers, sure of their approval. To anderstand the point it is necessary to premise that office, a half-breed, had previously murdered a brother of the narrator and pursuer, for which set, this relentless vengeance is taken:

Night after night I lay concealed at the blur, awaiting the murderer; I was armed with pictois and wore skates. Skating was an amusement which I had accelled in when a school boy, and facility in the art was of the last importance to my scheme of retribution. At length he came. It was an exquisite night; the white expanse around aparkled in the sheen of a Casadisn moon, which sailed calmly through a cloudless sky. I could have shot the vilian as he stated by me within fifty pards, but I would not risk the chance, and besides my vengeance cried for a sterrer fate them death by the pistol. CHICAGO. If Northern men are not entitled to protection in holding ground, the Union for all such is virmally at an end. We trust that Mr. Lovejoy will push his inquiry as far as the rules of the use will allow, and that he will, before the subject is dropped, group together the wellpulsion, and present them to the country a make weight in the next campaig 1

And now the cresh of the falls came loud and ominous on the ear.

Another five minutes would decide the hunt. Suddenly Olier turned and stood at bay. He was not armed, I felt certain of that all along, for otherwise he would have measured strength with me before. Without abating my pace, I skated down upon him, holding a pistol in each hand. Still my purpose was as lized as ever only to shoot the villian as a last resource. When I was within twenty yards of him, the coward faltered and again turned swiftly down the river. With a yesing laugh I pursued him, pressing still more hotly on his track.

Deafening was the roar of the cataract; high into the pale sky ascended the mist of the spray, through which the splintered lines of the monnight darted in rainbow tinted beauty. I could see directly the jagged line of the ice, where it was broken by the rapids immediately above the cataract, and beyond I could trace too bisterly personal to do good service. (Frante St. Louis Republican, Feb. 20th.).

The last overland mail brought in from Chibushas as passengers, Mr. P. Macmanus and James P. Rickman. They made the trip from the capital, be believe, in sixteen days, the shortest time, we believe, on record. The state of a sirs is represented by them as being in a most deplorable chodition, and not only the American, but the entire foreign population have been expelled and forced to leave by what is termed the "Church party."

The "Liberals" are represented as being kindly disposed to the Americans, but their powers in out sufficient to protect them, and they have been forced to retire, leaving their property being them, which doubless ere this has been confiscated, and the belief is expressed that the Capital of the State is now in their hands. Revolution and disorder prevail, and there is no longer any safety for the few American inhabitants, some of whore have been there for years. The American and English merchants have left under the promucic suscalo, and what the capital or the State is now in their for years. The American and English merchants have left under the promucic suscalo, and what the concept is at the merce of a leave of the suscalor of the state was a state of the merce of a leave of the suscalor of a leave of a leave of the suscalor of the suscal uilty skater had been fulfilled. on the 12th ultimo the State was invaded by aemsiderable force of the Church party, commanded by Bomingo Cajen, and united with him were two hundred of the most desperate robbers in Mexico, they having been pardoned by diramon, and let loose from the different prisons with carte blanche to ravage the country. Their first outrage committed in the State was upon Washington Barr. He is well known by many gentlemen in this city. They robbed him of all his property and beat him unmerci-Introduction of Italian Bees,

Among the passengers by the Arago yested day was Mr. S. B. Parsons and amily, of Flust-ing, Long Island. We mentioned some tim ago the sort of roving commission from on Government under which he has been exploi the two parties met on the plain of Tolamantes. They fought from 8 A. M. until 8 P. M. The Liberals were deteated, losing forty on the field—forty-five including the wounded and those who surrendered—all of whom were butchered is a few minutes after.

When this intelligence reached the Capital the authorities called a meeting. The Americans were also requested to attend. They were then advised that the city would be defended, but at the same time they stated that they cound not defend the lives or property of American eitiens, and suggested to us that we had better call apon the commanding officer at Fort Davis to come to our relief.

We replied that in case the acting Governor of the State would ask for assistance from the United States, under existing circumstances, we had no doubt it would be given him. He immediately dispatched an express to the commanding officer at Fort Biss, praying for the saistance of a few hundred men and their respective officers. Upon the retorn of this express, and no hope of relief, the Americans commenced immediately to leave the country. On the Sist uit. all the business houses were caused—not one American in the Capital—one million dollars property abandoned.

The church party entertain most hostile feeling for the Americans, and never let an opportantly pass where they can manifest it, more particularly since the ratification of the McLane treaty and the arrival of the President's message in Mexico.

Mr. Macmanus, who, having written a letter from Parrel advising the Americans of Chihuabas of the outrages committed by Cajen and his party, for so doing was fixed four hundred dollars and imprisoned, and perhaps a fate far worse than this awaits him.

The next news that may be heard from Chihuabas will probably be another bloody-battle as Cajen, who holds a commission from Mirawhich, in the course of the cast of the ratent Office reports. But one of the beat of the many useful things Mr. Parsons has done for his country during his absence, has been to procure an immense stock of Italian bees, with which to harvest the now wasted sweets of our vast meadows and prairies. He sent a dozen hives to the Patent Office last autumn. He has since purchased a hundred hives for himself, containing between two and three million of these winged workers, part of which came with him in the Arago, and the remainder follow in the Fulton, under the care of an experienced heckeeper, whom Mr. Parsons has engaged to superintend and increase them.

Mr. Langstroth, in his excellent book on beekeeping, says that the introduction of this Italian species will constitute a new era in honey-making, and many wonderful accounts are civen by him of their value.

They have been known in Northern Europe but a few years, and it is only in the Valteline and about the lakes that they are now found pure, and from whence they can be safely exported only in the autumn or early winter. Their superiority to the common bee consists in their greater capacity to endure the cold; in the fact that they swarm more than twice the number annually; that their queens are much more industrious; that their workers commence much saffer in the season, and are much more industrious; that they are leas apt to sing, and may hive in which ahe may be placed, which the open may be as educated as to lay her eggs in any hive in which she may be placed, which the open may be so educated as to lay her eggs in any hive in which she may be placed, which the open may be so educated as to lay her eggs in any hive in which she may be placed, which the open may be so educated as to lay her eggs in any hive in which she may be placed, which the open may be so educated as to lay her eggs in any hive in which she may be placed, which here each of the common because of the worker is longer, and it can touch the depths of flowers which are entirely beyond the have the right to judge for themselves. What did has say, Lydia?—Good old Mrs. Call was quite hard of hearing, being somewhat advanced in years. Her daughter, Lydia, was a bony-lass, who loved a good frolic, nod knew well how to get one up. Lydia had arranged a junket, and the young men and maids were all on haud. Among the rest was the general, one of 'em. In the midst of the fun, in popped old Deacon L., to see how the widow fared. This was a wet blanket upon the merrment, and the Deacon held on till Lydia was put out of all patience. She wished that he would go, and by and by he gets up to depart.

"Oh, deacon, descoun," said mother Call, "don't think of going before tea. Oh, do stop to tea, won't you!"

"The deacon strongly urged, replied:
"Well, I rather think I will, as the folks will not expect me home till dark."

"What did he say, Lydia?" said the widow. Lydia had a ready answer.

"He says he will not to-day, mother, as the folks expect him home before dark. Why, how deaf you grow, mother?"

"Oh, well, some other day, deacon, now won't you?" mid snother Call, as she showed the deacon out.

"Smart gal, that," said the deacon, as he trudged along home. "She'll find he way through, I'll warrant."

A force of one hundred and fifty men, scattered up and down the city, familiar with the localities where promises and threats may influence votes, possessed of a certain control over that part of the population that is moved by passion and interest, is too con venient an instrument for winning power and we shall be mistaken if the great body of the itisens, whose purses annually feel the effects of disorder and inefficiency, do not respond to

Last winter, "when the "Lecompton Charter" was presented to the Legislature, it was found to contain a provision by which a change might be made in the direction that we have indicated. But the Commissioners named in the Bill were the most realous and violent of very partisans; and the object of the contrivance was so clearly to fix and ste the police power in the hands of emocracy, to the exclusion of all surrender, in a word, of the police O'Flahertys, O'Gradys and Murlly opposed. POETICAL JUSTICE. It is not often that despots are guilty of a good thing; but in suppressing the Univers, the organ of the Ultramontane party in the oing that which historians will not fail here after to designate as poetical justice. That journal, the advocate of all that is bigeted and intolerant in religion and tyrannical in politics, was the only paper in France that applauded and defended the Imperial edict in 1852, by which liberty of the press in France was de-stroyed! It is hoist with its own petard. The censorship which it aided in maintaining has snuffed it out. The Univers is no more. But, that it was not squelched a moment to soon, ju ging by the rules which govern journalism on the Continent, we know by the fact, that for years it has maintained that the re-establishment of the Inquisition was a necessity, as the only basis of a sound government in Spain! If irresponsible rulers like Napoleon never were chargeable with a worse offence than that which cut short the Univers, a dozen of Napoleons might be profitably distributed among the European States. We are not sure that Rome, Naples and Austria could not take

The best way in the world to get out of dobt is to look it squi face, make the best terms possible with credi-tors, and then with becoming energy and with good courage, go to work and redeem your promises, or at least show a determination to come as near to it as possible. To call in the onest; and the fact that the whole State par. ticipates in the dishonesty petither changes the moral quality of the action nor delays for a day the penalty which sooner or later overtakes of stay laws to promote prosperity, stimulate in-dustry, or inspire a people with life and energy ion. The chief effect of all such legislation is to pone the return of prosperity, and to beget a laxity of moral sentiment as to the obligation: faxity of moral sentiment as to the obligations of justice and honor, for which no amount of resperity and material progress would be a dequate compensation. It will be an unfor

Any other policy will set her back at least a quarter of a century. PRO BATA AND THE GRAND If we had the ear of the managers of the rand Trunk Railway, we should urge them Not only is there good reason for believing the Not only is there good reason for beneving and the advocates of pro-rata will carry the day in the New York Legislature, but there is now a fair prospect that a similar measure will be forced through the Legislatures of Ohio and Pennsylvanis. If it is carried in either, the business of the Grand Trunk will be greatly -if in all, nearly the entire com merce of the Northwest and West will pass over it. It is next to impossible to resist the originated by the Grand Trunk interest, is at Leadenhall street might easily afford to give a million or two to get this pro-rata measure through the Legislatures of the three States named. It would make the Grand Trunk Railway stock the best paying investment in the offend the South? The Detroit Advertiser says sharply.

"It was amnounced by telegraph, yesterday, that 'Senator Douglas had prepared a eulogy on Mr. Broderick, to be delivered to-day, but last night he was severely attacked by pleurier? This 'pleurier' a very convenient refuge for Mr. Deuglas. It is not the first time it has done him a good service. At the opening of Clongressi is saved him from the necessity of showing his hand until he had taken full time to a rayey the field and decide what position he could take with the most safety. Congress has now been in season ten weeks and he has been in his seat five or six weeks. Butas no day had been fixed upon for announcing the death of his brave and generous-hearted friend, there was no sign of a return of his disease. He seemed to have quite recovered from it. But when the time for that melancholy duty had been definitely set-omitted, 19,000 people were found to reside in the portion which was enumerated. No man who had examined the subject but believed there was sufficient population to entitle her to immediate admission. He therefore moved to smend the resolution by instructing the Judiary Committee to report ary Committee to report and dissions of Kanasa under the Wyanoone stitution. Pugh of Ohio was opposed to instructing the committee. If the English bill had beer violated, he would vote against the admission violated, he would vote against the admission to correctly assertained that it

The debate was cut off by the Vice-President calling up a special order to prohibit the issue of bank notes under $30 in the District of Columbia.

How long is it since this aristocrat Mason, and the Mississippi namesake of the man who captured Harper's Perry, were red-hot for the admission of Kansas when she had less than half her present population? The Virginia slave-breeder stickled for no technical observance of law; the Mississippi fire ester experienced no qualms on the score of forms, when the Border Ruffans presented the infamous Lecompton Constitution. When the usurpers came with their slave-code Constitution, which was abhorred and repudiated by the people of Kansas, they were not met at the threshold of the Senate with a chilling frown and a mess of swash about solemn statutes. No, the ruffansly usurpers were received with open arms and disunion Brown. But the honest maskes of the West will not be deceived by the special plasading of the slave-drivers. If the Democracy think they can afford to keep Kansas out of the Union during the Presidential campaige, let them try it. If they dour! get a pair of black eyes and a smashed nose at the ballot box next fall, then I'll never again attempt to prophecy.

What troubles the fire-esters, is the rapidity with which three new Republican States will be knocking for admission, with their size "Black Republican Senators in Congress. Ohio has just elected another in the person of the noble Chase. Pennsylvania and Indiana will relieve Bigler and Fitch from public service next winter. This will be a clear majority of the vhole Senate within two years from the other thirty, Indiana, Minnesots and New Jersay will each have a Republican Senators to contribute to the pile, making thirty seven good and true men who will practice Democracy as Jeferson their four. Senators are added to the other thirty, Indiana, Minnesots and New Jersay will each have a Republican Senators to contribute to the pile, making thirty seven good and true men who will practice Democracy as Jef ing with mortgages, and requiring them to be forselosed by suit. This bill, if passed by the foreciosed by suit. This bill, if passed by any Senate, will drive money lenders to adopt a course sometimes pursued now; that is, the borrower will confess judgment on the court record and waive right to appeal. It is utterly nacious to regulate the wealth and prosperity of a country, by acting directly on money contracts. Legislation must go back of all that. Usury, stay, exemption, redemption and valuation laws will not increase the wealth of the State, nor govern the world's law of commerce and finance. After speculation comes depression, and with demand will come high interestyour laws to the contrary notwithstanding.

Yesterday the House was all the afternoon, and the Senate was all this day, upon a joint resolution to investigate the first and first and first and the senate was all this day, upon a joint resolution to investigate the first and f and the Senate was all this day, upon a joint resolution to investigate the affairs and man agement of the Insane Aaylum. I stated to you some facts that have misled the people. The discussion of to-day and yesterday arose on the question, whether the committee should visit the Aaylum, or send for persons and papers. The whole case was discussed. Democrats seized upon it as their legitimate and project capital. They told with patriotic fervor how they had warned the people in the last canvass that it would cost $100,000 to complete the Asylum, which is now asked, while the Republicans read from every stump in the the Republicans read from every stump in the State a letter from the Architect, Winslow, stating that $20,000 was all that was required.

Mr. Bereman threw some light on these reports. He said he believed the estimate of the Architect was correct. Architect was correct; that $20,000 would com-plete the building, but it would cost some $30,-900 for heating apparatus, beside the other fur-niture; that Mr. Winslow had stated in his let-

The wind is vastly reduced in the sails of our Democratic friends, if this is true, and there seems no doubt of it. A passage at arms took place on the subject between the most prominent Democratic leaders of the House, Messra. Baker and Claggett. Bereman stated, in reply to the accumulations, that Republicans in reply to the occusations, that Republicans had uttered a lie about the cost of the comple-tion of the Asylum last fall, that Mr. Winslow, ndent and Architect, was a well, Winslow was one of the old Mayllower hames, and there never came over a Democrat in that crowd. Claggett, by the way, is from Virginia, and is a native of Maryland, while Gov. Baker is from New Hampahire. Baker replied, defending the character of New Englanders, and wound up by saying, in effect, dust the Democracy of New England, the descendants of the Pilgrims that came ever in the Mayflower, would not suffer any a comparison with those from Marylett. would not subset from Mayer-od. prom Mayer-od. progett fired up in less time than one of your casean fire ougles, or tar and turpentine, and said if Baker wanted a personal issue he could have it; that he Baker, had started off in his Legislative career with half a dozen schemes of the case of eternal consequent "Mr. Speaker," keep his vo-cal organs in a constant damaged condition. The probability is he occupies full one-third of the tatking time of the House. He talked three hours on the John Brown passage in the Inau-gural, is one speech, and is the most inveterate Democrat of the Southern order in the State. His perseverance is perfectly unlimited, and his persistency overcomes a bad impression which his conduct is sure to make. his conduct is sure to make.

This morning the Rev. Mr. Nash prayed at the opening of the session, and besought such legislation as should tend to relieve the nation of the curse of slavery.

Hardly had the Rev. gentleman said "Amen"

everlasting nigger. For one, we are everlasting nigger. For one, we mit to it. He wanted these ministers, if allowed inside the Hall, to keep the nigger out of the prayers here.

The Speaker and several members called him to order, but amid some sensation, Claggett concluded his protest against ministers praying for the negro in the presence of Democratic white men. If the darkey is as far beyond the pale of merey as Claggett, if were perhaps a ck was a concluded him to pray for him.

DES MOINES.

CRARLETON, Feb. 14.

The court room was crowded resterday morning to hear the sentence of the law passed upon Hazlett and Stevens. Some time was occupied by counsel in presenting bills.

Stevens then said:—"May it please the court. I have a few words to say. Some of the testimony given against me was ustrue. One of the witnessee stated that I said "Let us kill the—or—burn the town. To those who know me it is useless to make a denial of this charge, but I deny here, before God and man, ever having made such a proposition. I wish to say I am entirely satisfied with the conduct of my counsel, Mr. Seanott. I think he did all in his power in my behalf. I desire also to return my thanks to the officers who have had charge of me, for their universal kind treatment, and to my physician for the services readered me whilst suffering from my wounds. When I think of my brothers slaughtered and sisters outraged my conscience does not reprove me for my actions. I shall meet my fate manfully."

[This reference is understood to be the treatment of his Northern brethren and sisters during the Kansas broils.]

DOCTRINE OF THE PATHERS. The prevelent opinion among those who framed the Constitution of this Government, was that, in political ecomomy, slavery was to be regarded as an vii; to some extent, indeed, a necessary evil, in communities where it had existed for many generations, and become interwoven with the social habits and business interests; but still as evil, whose peaceable and legal removal vas an object of earnest desire. In relation to its original establishment in a new society, the opinion was more decided; such establishment was justly considered a great second wrong, sin against God, and a crime against humanty, as well as repugnant to the principles of sound political economy. And such continues to be the general opinion of the country for myre than a generation after the principles of sound political economy. And such continue to be the general opinion of the country for more than a generation after the adoption of the Constitution. I shall not weary the House with quotations in confirmation of these statement; the proofs of their correct meas will readily occur to all intelligent men.

PRINCE PROCEATIC DOCTAINE.

The Democratic party of to-day denounces these sentiments as laise and fanatical. It holds, as an abstract proposition, that property in man exists of natural right; no more to be condemned in monis or deprecated in policy than property in each or merchandine; that the system of American slavery, which is based upon this property imman, is also, and without reference to collate al circumstances, right; right, not mere y where it exists as an involuntary inheritance from proceding generations, but rightfully to be originally established in a community, as a component part of its domestic institutions. As not only this, but that, as a system, it is expedient; productive of vast benefits where it aready exists, and calculated to produce the gratest good in societies where, under favoring influences of soil and climate. aysiem, it is expedient; productive of vast benefits where it arendy exists, and calculated to produce the gratest good in societies where, under favoring influences of soil and climate, it may be newly established.

The Democratic party, moreover insists that this property it man its distinctly recognized and protected by the Gaustitution of the United States; that wherever the term "property" is used in that incrument, it embraces slaves as truly as any obset of legitimate ownership; and that every conclusion of legal or logical sequence from he language of the Constitution which may apply to merchandise of any description is equally applicable to this. I amaware that then is a section of the Democratic party which doe not concur in all of the foregoing views, and I shall have occasion afficient in the course of my remarks. The influence of this portion in public affairs is, however, at present, comparatively small. The executive department of the Government, the Democratic numbers of the Federal judicary, and an overshelming majority of the Democratic members of both Houses of Congress, embrace the ophions which I have now stated.

it applies to all objects of legitimate ownership. The applies to all objects of legitimate ownership, then human beings are as proper an artical of commerce as cotton; the statute which declares the slave-trade pursey is a hideour iniquity, and its execution would be judicial murder. Again, assuming the correctness of the principles all ready enunciated, it is the imperative duty of Congress to provide forthwith, by further legislation, for the protection of property in slaves in the Territories of the United States. Whatever also may be said of this species of property, it is is an attempt to arbitrate between conflict principles, by renouncing all principle, strives to adjust permanent antagonisms by shallowest of temporary expedients. It is actly adapted to the wants of swindling pi-ticians and lying demagogues. It process from a source where seliash ambition, untir-energy, shuffling inconsistency, and brazen a surance, are the chief qualities which excite it public attention. It is now seeking to evan responsibility, by shifting to the judicial the proper duties of the legislative department. Faithless to everything except personal ambi-tion, it has tauselt all except personal amb-tion, it has tauselt all except personal ambthat savenotoers have left that their estate in their human chattels was entirely insecure, when once removed beyond the protection of State sovereignty. To say that the Constitution guarantees to the owner of property the absolute enjoyment of his rights therein, throughout the Federal possessions, and then to refuse a remedy for the violation of those rights, is but a solemn mockery. Nor is this all. The same of the Constitution against the capacity of the people of a Territory to abolish slavery when they come to make their State constitution; and every State in this Union, which has emerged from the territorial condition since 1789, and, in so doing, has incorporated into its constitution what I think I may properly call the anti-slaves as a sufficient security for its free aystem, is to-day in its legal condition, according to this exposition of the Constitution of the United States, as much a slave State as South United States, as much a slave State as South United States, as much a slave State as South States, as much as lave State as South States, as such as lave States as South States, as such as lave States as South States, as such as lave States as South Stat did the people, while in their territorial condition, as they must have been while in the act of making their constitution, acquire their power to aboish alayery within their borders? From any inherent right so to do? This is vehemeatly denied. From any act of Congress? It is expressly affirmed that Congress can confer no such power. From the Constitution of the United States? The answer is an unqualified negative. Whence, then, does this power come? The gentleman from Texas, (Mr. Reagan,) in his very able speech gave the only answer of which, upon the Democratic theory, the question is susceptible. The power is a "resolutionary" one; against all constitutions, all lawa, all governmental anthority, it comes by "revolution." The whole Democratic territorial policy is thus reduced to a system, not of order, but of disorder; not of reac and stability, but of "revolution."

Such are the fundamental principles of the

THE REPUBLICAN DOCTRINE.

Peath of a Millionaire.

(From the New York Herald of the 17th.)

We have to record this morning the death of one of the oldest and one of the most wealth citizens of this city—Mr. Stephen Whitney He died at his residence, opposite the Bowlin Green, where he has resided for the last thirt or forty years. He had been in ill health for some time, owing to his years, and yesterday he died at the advanced age of eighty-four. He leaves four children—three daughters and on on—together with a large number of other Natires. I affirm that property in man does not and cannot exist of natural right. It fills me with unspeakable mortification to be compelled, in this enlightened age and this Christian Republic, to go back to demonstrate the primary truths of common morality. But the necessity exists. The Democratic organization, extending into every town and village in the Confederacy, is fast becoming delaucked and democratication—to adopt that teaching as true. If this doctrine shall become the predominant belief throughout that teaching as true. If this doctrine shall become the predominant belief throughout the greater portion of the country, and systems of bondage come to be justified and approved by the masses of the people, than I believe that real freedom will specify thereafter disappear from the Republic. I repeat, therefore, that property in slaves does not and cannot exist of natural right. There is no voice of impiration masserting in man such dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowlis of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the face of the earth; and we are, therefore, left to rest our judgment upon the just instincts of the human heart, and the honest guidance of an enlightened conscience. And to these I appeal. There is not a fitter start for the people of the sea, and were the which deeper the south of the sea and the honest guidance of an enlightened conscience. And to these I appeal. There is not a fitter start of any people or age which does not depict there were the south of the sea and in this House who would not sooner is dozen, in his grase than become a bond. Non-togener.

No was for a long time connected with the Alipping interests of this city, and acquired portion of his immense wealth in that busines. The foundation of it, however, was said to have been obtained in the following manner: Duris the war of $3.12 he was largely engaged in trae and had large amounts due him from parties and had large amounts due him from parties. been obtained in the following manner: During, the war of $812 he was largely engaged in trade, and had large amounts due him from parties in the South. These southern merchants being unable to pay him, owing to the stoppage of all foreign business, as a last resort offered to meet their liabilities by giving him so much cotton, which was, then—the quotation being merely nominal—very low. This he secepted, and storing it away, waited fill peace was proclaimed, and proce rose. He then sold it, receiving in return large prices, giving him enormous profits, which at once made him a wealthy man. In the great panic of 1837, having immense amounts of cash at his command, he speculated in paper and real estate down town. These, of course, he purchased at panie prices, and when things were restored to their original state found himself a millionaire. In 1857 he was taxed for a million and a half. According to the assessments on Mr. Astor, Commodore Vanderblit, and other wealthy men, they are in proportion of one dollar assessment to be notified or a decided of the control of the first process of the few real millionaire of actual property. Estimating Mr. Whitney's wealth on this perfectly asfe basis, he died worth from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000. Thus he was a millionaire, one of the few real millionaire in the city. At the time that all the fashion and wealth of the metropolis were moving up town, and leaving all the lower control of the city of the city.

Chemiss dis Nord that when Mr. Obden arrived, some months ago, from England, his luggage weighed about 13,000 killogrammes (?), that is to ear, thirteen tons. It was immediately forwarded to St. Clond. This parcel contained patterns of every kind of English produce. The Emperor word with Mr. Colden over the wholesy

If ever there was an instrument of government in the world, that breathed the very spirit of freedom, it is the Constitution of the United States. It was made "to establish justice and to score the blessings of liberty," it declares that "the privilege of the writ of Asbeas corpus shall not be suspended," except in cases of rebellion or invasion; that "no bill of attainder or expost face is aw shall be passed;" that "no title of nobility shall be granted by the United States;" it subjects the ohief Executive Magistrate to impactament; it provides that "the trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury," of the vicinege, it guarantees "to every State in this Union a republican form of government;" it forbids the enactment of any law by the Federal Legislature "respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grieveances," it declares that "the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed; that the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable eserches and seizures shall not be violated," that "no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law," and then, to over all possible continencies of dager to the our pose. Every page of the constitution of the United States is radical solid to light of universal diberty. He who would find there pretext or excuse for bondage, must turn his back upon that light, and grope his way among the shadway of distorted and doubtul construction. Having now shown that the Democratic party, as an oversal time.

I suppose that I may, with propriety, look to the opinions most recently avowed by Mr. Douglas, for the principles which are embraced by this class of politicians; and, if I truly understand those opinions, they are now any mind, more detectable Domestic Goods for Cash. A German named Nick Streit has confessed that he set fire to the barn of Samuel Singmaster, in Keokuk county, Jowa, on suspicion of which the woman, Mrs. Tier, was lynched. Thus, mobe and "regulators" are apt to injure the innocent as to punish the guilty.

A log has been found, apparently cedar, two feet in diameter, 21½ feet from the surface of the ground, while men were digging a well in the northeast corner of lowa county on high prairie, two or three miles from timber, and four miles from the lowa river.

Max Suor.—On Tuesday morning Michael Gill, who lives a few miles from town, was shot. It seems that on Monday James Gill, a cousin of the man who was killed, had some difficulty with Michael Mulvaney about a load of wood, in which Gill was finally whipped. That night about 12 o'clock, with several friends, Gill went to Mulvaney's house and attempted to break in, for the purpose of beating him, as they asid. As they were coming in at the door, Mulvaney fired his gun at them, and the whole charge of shot took effect in Gill's face just below the eye, killing him instantly. Mulvaney then went out and broke his gun over another of the party, hurting him badly. Mulvaney gave himself up to the authorities and his examination is now progressing,—Lyona (Loves) Mirror.

Sad Castalty.—A man, whose name we have been anable to learn, was run over yesterday afternoon on the Valley road at Peru (Ind.) Both legs were badly crushed—one from the knee down, and the other from about midway between the hip and knee. No hopes were entertained of his recovery from the first, and last night he expired. The accident occurred in his attempting to step from one car to the other, and missing his footing he fell between the cars and the train passed over him. He was not missed from the train until it reached Wabash, when the Conductor telegraphed back to Peru and learned the facts.

A LITTIR LESSON FOR JIMMY BUCHANAN.—At a place called Amis-tra-lia, far over the sea, the folks use a strange weap-on called Boo-mo-rang, which in English means Fornie. The folks there know how to use it, but when strange folks, who do not know how to use it, take it up and throw it from them, it comes right back very hard, and huris them very much, and sometimes kills them. It is a very ug-ly weap-on, and good lit the boys should not touch it; but if it the boys may be rash, if not warned, so all good boys must take care new-er to han-die the Boo-me rang, lest their friends, if they have any, should moura for them on some bright March af-ter-noon.
